6. Wastewater is to be by individual on-site wastewater treatment systems. Due to the geologic characteristics and other constraints on this site, many systems are likely to require location and design by a Professional Engineer. These systems may be more expensive than a conventional system.
7. No buildings are permitted within easements and geologic hazard areas.
8. Easements are as shown with the sole responsibility for maintenance of these easements being vested with the individual property owners.
9. Prior to the establishment of any driveway, an access permit must be granted by the El Paso County Development Services Department.

Preliminary Geology and Surface Soils Evaluation and Sewage Disposal Characteristics, by Front Range Geotechnical dated July 28, 2005. Future purchasers of lots in this subdivision should familiarize themselves with the possible impacts said wet areas may have on future driveways, buildings and other improvements.
13. Surface flooding, shallow bedrock and/or groundwater and sporadic expansive soils and/or bedrock may be present on this site. These conditions may affect the ability to construct basements and may also affect the type and expense of septic systems. Individual lot soils studies that address both foundation and septic conditions are required prior to building permit to address these issues.

Geologic Hazard Area - No Build Area (hatched area)

These areas are shown in an approximate manner to indicate where geological hazards may exist. These areas are shown per the request of the El Paso County Development Services Department to make potential lot owners aware of this situation. The location of these areas was determined by others. The certification hereon does not apply as to the accuracy or completeness, of this information. Potential lot owners should contact a qualified geotechnical engineer to determine the exact location of these areas. Water in the Denver Basin Aquifers is allocated based on a 100-year aquifer life; however, for El Paso County planning purposes water in the Denver Basin Aquifers is evaluated based on a 300-year aquifer life. Applicants and all future owners in the subdivision should be aware that the economic life of a water supply based on wells in a given Denver Basin Aquifer may be less than either the 100 years or 300 years indicated due to anticipated water level declines. Furthermore, the water supply plan should not rely solely upon non-renewable aquifers. Alternative renewable water resources should be acquired and incorporated in a permanent water supply plan that provides future generations with a water supply.
